Matthew shook his head. "Sasha, don't you know Mom and Dad's character? If they are aware that the jade bracelet has been found, they'll definitely aim at it and sell it again one day. This jade bracelet was given to you by Old Mrs. Graham and it has a profound meaning, so we must never sell it!"

Sasha nodded repeatedly. "You're right. We must conceal this matter from them. This will serve as a lesson to them so that they won't get into any trouble again!"

Once she got back the jade bracelet, Sasha could finally be at ease. She carefully kept it away, planning to bring it to the company tomorrow and store it in the company's safe.

Suddenly, Sasha laughed. "So does it mean that you don't have to bear the responsibility for this matter anymore? Then why did you request for Liam and Demi to move back home?"

Demi has never been fond of you while Liam is never a kind person. If both of them were here, how could we live peacefully?"

Matthew chuckled. "If they came, only then we could move out. Aren't you thinking of having your own place for a long time?"

We could find an excuse to do so once they move in. Since Mom and Dad are still making me bear the consequence of this matter, they definitely won't leave with us. With that, we'll have our own space and spend some alone time together!"

Sasha's eyes lit up in excitement while she gently punched Matthew. Then, she said gleefully, "Matthew, you're wicked! If Liam finds out, he'll surely die of anger."

Matthew grabbed Sasha's delicate hand and replied with a chuckle, "He's always trying to victimize me. It's now my turn to let him have a taste of his own medicine!"

Sasha nodded vigorously. "We shouldn't be soft-hearted toward this kind of person! Matthew, actually, you don't need to treat them so politely. You should have taught him a bitter lesson a long time ago. Otherwise, he'll always scheme to bully you."

Matthew sighed softly. "He's Demi's husband. If I had taught him a lesson, Demi would surely make a huge fuss! Besides, Mom and Dad have always favored him. If they made a scene, we would be at a disadvantage in the end. Therefore, there's no point in doing that. After all, with a little forbearance, we'll find calm and peace."

Sasha sighed in helplessness because Matthew was absolutely right. Even she couldn't deal with Liam. "Oh right, Matthew, why did Mr. Newman and Mr. Wayne suddenly show up tonight?"

Matthew replied with a smile, "Because I saved Mr. Newman's daughter some time ago. Plus, I've told you before about saving Timothy's son as well, which I did so by chance. That is why he's extremely grateful toward me."

Sasha was still confused. "Yes, you told me about Mr. Wayne. But what about Mr. Newman? Hasn't he gotten even with you?"

Matthew laughed and continued, "Perhaps Mr. Newman feels that I'm a kind man, so he views me as his friend."

Sasha still wasn't fully convinced but she didn't ask him further about it.

The next morning, Liam and Demi went home with piles of luggage. Liam was the most excited. This time, he could finally stay at home for a justified reason and to get closer to Sasha.

After having his breakfast, Matthew informed James and Helen that he would be visiting Old Mrs. Graham to tell her the truth.

Unctuously, James and Helen squeezed a few teardrops as if they sincerely cared for Matthew. Right after Matthew left, Sasha carried a luggage out.

“Sasha, where are you going?” Helen asked in surprise.

Sasha put on an icy face. “Matthew’s return is uncertain this time. It’s inconvenient for me to stay at home since there are so many people here. From now on, I’ll stay at the company!”

Liam was struck dumb. What was going on? You’re leaving right after I came? Then what’s the point of me coming here? Am I obligated then to take care of this old couple?

Medical Genius’s Unspeakable Marriage Chapter 212

Helen asked anxiously, “How are you going to stay at the company? How is it inconvenient for you to stay at home?”

Sasha rebutted angrily, “Matthew is not home. Plus, Liam and Demi are back. Do you think it’s appropriate for me to stay? Mom, if this news was spread out, aren’t you afraid that people would talk behind our backs?”

Helen was left speechless because Sasha was right. With two daughters staying under the same roof with Liam, it would indeed be disgraceful news.

They were hoping that Sasha could marry into a wealthy family in the future. If her reputation was tarnished, how would their dreams come true? At last, Sasha left with her luggage.

Liam cried tearlessly in regret because he couldn't escape now even if he wanted to. After some time, while they were having their meal, James put down his bowl after he had finished eating. "Liam, wash the dishes and remember to prepare lunch earlier.

There's only half a portion of the chicken left in the fridge, so go and buy some fish and prawn from the supermarket later on.

We'll have lunch at 12 noon sharp, so please prepare it prior to that!" After that, James strode out the door with his hands crossed behind his back.

Helen commanded a second later, "Liam, wash the clothes that are in the bathroom. My coat must not be machine-washed, but hand-washed.

Plus, the three white shirts must not be exposed under the sun, so just hang them somewhere airy. Oh, and please take out the trash."

The two elders went out, leaving Liam and Demi looking at each other. Only now did they understand that moving back to stay was a huge mistake. However, it was too late to regret it.

On the other side, Matthew didn't go to Old Mrs. Graham's house. Instead, he directly went to the hospital to work. Meanwhile, Sasha carried her luggage back to the company.

For the following days, she would be temporarily staying there. She had a huge bedroom behind her office. In the past, she would put up a night there if she worked until late at night.

According to Sasha's plan, after she received the bonuses from the company that would be distributed two months later, she would buy a new house and move in with Matthew.

Her dream house was The Grand Pavilion. She was still considering if she should discuss with Tiger to rent one of his houses where she and Matthew could temporarily stay in. In the future when she had more money, she could buy her dream house and be absolutely content.

On the other hand, Matthew was planning to move to Lakeside Villa with Sasha a few days later, but only after helping Natalie to regain her consciousness once he found the last Thousand-Year Snow Lotus.

When he returned to the emergency room and sat down, a nurse came in with a stack of test reports. "Mr. Larson, this is the test report of the patients from the previous car accident. Please have a look."

Matthew knew that the patients of the car accident were Leanna and her daughter. After a brief glance, he noticed a shocking problem.

The test report showed that Leanna's blood type did not match with her daughter's. If it was any other situation, Matthew wouldn't feel so astounded. After all, a child's blood type could either match with the mother or the father. However, Leanna's blood condition was more complicated.

In her blood, there was a special substance called Sigma Blood Element, which had no record in modern medicine at all. However, this kind of blood element was described in the knowledge that Matthew inherited from the Holy Doctor, Christopher Larson.

Leanna was an unparalleled beauty who emits a rare scent from her body. Her skin was so fair that it almost seemed transparent, smooth and glossy.

Furthermore, she almost didn't look like a human. Although Sasha's skin was already flawless, hers was still slightly inferior compared to Leanna's. That was due to the Sigma Blood Element.

This kind of blood element would only appear in the female's blood. It could improve their skin condition and slow down the aging process. Most importantly, females who had the Sigma Blood Element would emit a special fragrance.

In the past, there was a concubine named Fragrant Concubine. She had Sigma Blood Element as well, so her body would emit a rare scent.

Children who were born by women with this element would unnecessarily inherit this property. However, the children's blood type would surely be the same as the mother and that was indubitable. Therefore, there was a great problem when Leanna's daughter had a different blood type with her.

After pondering for a while, Matthew decided to meet Leanna and tell her about that.

Today at Creative Cloud Group, Leanna's office, she wore a smart office attire with her hair tied back, revealing her perfect body.

She emitted a special scent which filled the air in the office. After what had happened last night, Leanna once again learned about Matthew's power. In the past, she thought that Matthew's backing was only the Cunningham Family and that he was just a common person. Only now did she realize that she was too ignorant.

When she met Matthew again, she couldn't help but sigh with emotions. Although last night didn't end well, she still received the commendation from the Ten Greatest Families.

The reason for her commendation was none other than the presence of Billy and Timothy at the party, which heightened the standard of the function. In the future, the Cloud Nine Cocktail Party that was organized by the Ten Greatest Families would attract even more prominent figures.

As for Isaac and the rest, they were brought back by their respective family masters in person. Needless to say, punishment was inevitable when they got home. Isaac and Zachary suffered the worst punishment; both of them were stripped off their identity as the heir.

Isaac was even expelled from the company. Now, the ex-president had lost all his position and privileges. His family immediately supported Isaac's brother to take over the company.

Not only that, Isaac and Zachary's social status dropped drastically. They were once the top-notch dandies in Eastcliff but now, they sank directly to the bottom.

Those that they looked down upon in the past even dared to boss them around now. They bitterly regretted it at this instant. Even in their wildest dreams, they had never thought that Matthew would have such great abilities. If they had known about it earlier, they wouldn't have the nerve to mess with Matthew!

"Mr. Larson, you never cease to amaze me! I have never imagined that Master Newman and Mr. Wayne would appear at the Cloud Nine Cocktail Party for you.

This party can be said to have the highest standard since it has been founded!" Leanna laughed while saying.

Matthew replied, "President Sandel, I came to meet you to tell you something."

Seeing that Matthew looked serious, Leanna sat upright as well. "Please go on, Mr. Larson."

After hesitating for a while, Matthew asked discreetly, "President Sandel, have you ever tested your daughter's blood type?"

Leanna's expression changed subtly. "Why did you ask about this, Mr. Larson?"

Solemnly, Matthew replied, "Because I suspect that your daughter might not be your biological child!"

There was a huge change in Leanna's expression while she stared at Matthew in great astonishment as if she had witnessed something unbelievable.

Seeing Leanna's expression, Matthew couldn't help but feel perplexed because she wasn't surprised but bewildered. Could it be that Leanna knew about that too?

After a moment of silence, Leanna asked in a low voice, "Mr. Larson, h-how did you find out?"

"The hospital has both of your test reports from your injuries."

"But that means that only both of our blood types are shown, not her father. How can you conclude that she is not my biological daughter?" asked Leanna.

Matthew glanced at her. "President Sandel, I came here just to remind you. If I offended you in any way, please ignore whatever I say. I will keep my mouth shut too."

Leanna immediately said, "Mr. Larson, I-I'm not blaming you... A-Actually..."
Leanna was obviously hesitating but at last, she clenched her teeth and went on, "Actually, you're right. Gemma is not my daughter!"

Matthew couldn't help but feel astonished because Leanna indeed had known about that! But what was going on?

Why was she willing to withstand loads of infamy and humiliation for a child who didn't belong to her? What was she trying to get out of it?

After a sigh, Leanna related Gemma's story in a low voice.

Medical Genius's Unspeakable Marriage Chapter 214

So Gemma was actually the child of Leanna's best friend. In her early years, the Sandels wanted Leanna to marry into a big family in Bainbridge to enhance the status and strength of the Sandel Family through her marital arrangement.

However, the other party was a prissy young master with a notorious reputation in Bainbridge, and Leanna could not bring herself to marry such a man. Upon hearing that Leanna was a beautiful woman, the young master came to Eastcliff immediately to look for her.

On that night, he ganged up with one of Leanna's aunts and drugged her with the intention of taking her as his own. Leanna almost fell into the trap, but managed to make a call to her best friend at the most critical moment.

Her best friend rushed over to save her and accidentally stabbed the young master. The matter blew up and she had no other choice but to flee the city.

In order to break themselves away from this ordeal, the Sandels offered Leanna two choices—she could either marry that young master or sever her ties with the Sandles and be responsible for her own life and death! And this was the reason why she left the Sandel Family years ago.

While she was drifting around for a few years on her own, her best friend got married and had a child, Gemma.

But just a few years ago, the young master from Bainbridge still managed to locate her best friend and tortured her whole family to death, leaving Gemma barely alive as the sole survivor of the incident.

Leanna's best friend left her a text message before passing out, asking her to take care of Gemma. She then found Gemma and made the burial arrangements for her best friend and the rest of her family.

In order to survive, Leanna had no other way but to return to Eastcliff and announce to everyone that Gemma was her child. That young master lost interest in her the moment he found out about the news.

Back then, Old Mr. Graham was still alive and the matter only came to rest after he helped her by pulling some strings. With his assistance, Leanna started Creative Cloud Group and built it up little by little.

Later, when the Sandels saw how Creative Cloud Group was getting stronger and stronger, they came to solicit Leanna and the situation ended up like how it was now.

After hearing all these, Matthew was shocked; he didn't think that there were actually so many secrets hidden behind this incident.

Such a painful past lay behind Leanna's glamorous front, but the Sandels—the first family of Eastcliff—was actually posing as people with high morals who were greedy for fame and gains!

“President Sandel, you don't have to tell me any of this, actually. I'll keep Gemma's background a secret and won't tell anyone about it!” Matthew assured.

Leanna said with a sigh, "Mr. Larson, you definitely have my trust, but I have another reason for telling you all these."

"What is it?" Matthew asked.

"Mr. Larson, you've already met Gemma, so what do you think of her health?" she asked gently.

Matthew gave it a thought before answering, "Her congenital heart condition is not a serious disease. I can treat her!"

But Leanna shook her head instead. "Gemma's condition is not that simple, Mr. Larson."

"Really?" Matthew was startled. Did he not see it correctly?

"How about if I ask her to come over so that you could examine her more closely?" she suggested.

Matthew nodded and her secretary brought Gemma into the room after a while. Gemma had recovered quite a lot, but she still walked slowly and didn't dare to exercise vigorously. Looking at her once again, Matthew's brows suddenly knitted tightly together.

This child looked a little similar to Julian's, but there was no life at all in her eyes. Her whole body was pale and she was exuding a strange scent.

It wasn't perfume, but a special kind of Chinese herbal smell and it was very peculiar. It was then that Matthew suddenly realized that he had made a wrong diagnosis.

That night, he was mad and agitated by Jojo and the others. In addition to the darkened lighting, he couldn't see clearly and didn't pay special attention to Gemma's condition. But when he looked at her again now, he saw that her condition was very serious!

Leanna held Gemma and played with her for a while before asking the secretary to take her out. “So what do you think, Mr. Larson?”

With furrowed brows, Matthew fixed his gaze on her and said, “President Sandel, this child is probably not alive!”

If it was anyone else who had heard that phrase, they would have been shocked beyond words. She was not alive? Could she be a dead person, then?

But when Leanna heard that, she was overjoyed instead of shocked. “Mr. Larson, y-you could really tell Gemma’s condition. Looks like you’re the only one who could save her, just as the old miracle doctor had told me!”

“What do you mean?” Matthew asked, surprised.

Suppressing her excitement, she asked him in a low voice, “What do you think of Gemma’s condition now, Mr. Larson?”

Matthew thought about it for a while before asking her instead, “Was Orleans the last hiding place of your friend?”

Again, he surprised her. “How did you know that?”

Matthew let out a small sigh and explained a shocking tale to her, “Gemma no longer has a heart and the only way to keep such a person alive in this world exists only in Orleans.

In Orleans, there is a Heart-linking Remedy, which places a mother worm into a person's body in place of a heart, while another child worm is placed into the heart of another person. The child and mother worms are connected, and when the child worm beats, so will the mother worm.

This is the Heart-linking Remedy, where the beating mother worm residing in the person without a heart will now be used as a heart.

Although the results are not as good as a regular heart, it could still keep a person alive! However, this method is akin to killing one's life to save another, because the person with the child worm has to take the burden of two persons' heartbeat, and is destined to lie in bed forever, suffering more than just a person in comatose!"

Shocked, Leanna stared wide-eyed at him.

"What's wrong? Was I mistaken?" he asked.

Taking a deep breath, she said in a shaky voice, "Mr. Larson, e-everything you said is true. That's indeed the case with Gemma's current condition."

"So what happened?" Matthew pressed on with a frown.

Leanna's eyes turned red as she related to him in a low voice, "Actually, I was hiding some details from you just now. My best friend didn't pass away back then, but the young master tortured her to the brink of life with only one last breath left.

Right in front of her eyes, that young master stabbed into Gemma's heart and then cut off my best friend's wrists, leaving her there to watch as Gemma's heartbeat slowly died down. Fortunately, an old miracle doctor happened to meet them by chance and saved them. My best friend begged for him to save her daughter and he used this Heart-linking Remedy to save Gemma. But the price was, she has to remain in comatose forever!"

Matthew couldn't help but lament at how great her best friend was—able to bear all sorts of suffering for the sake of her daughter!

“Back then, the old miracle doctor had said, if there was anyone in this world who could tell that Gemma isn't my daughter, he would most probably be the only person who could save her! Mr. Larson, c-could you please save Gemma and my best friend?”

As long as you are able to, I-I'm willing to be a slave to repay you.” Before she finished speaking, she was starting to choke up. So many years had passed and she was already feeling hopeless. Unexpectedly, hope found its way to her again!

Sighing, Matthew said, “President Sandel, your best friend is a good mother indeed. Don't worry. I'll definitely help you, but it's not that easy to save them. The hardest part about removing the Heart-linking Remedy is giving Gemma a heart.”

“C-Couldn't this be done through a heart transplant?” she asked anxiously.

Matthew shook his head. “She can't last long with a heart transplant. Moreover, she has been living on a mother worm, which has to be kept alive by feeding it with certain herbs.

The accumulated toxins over time from these herbs could harm her life. It's not a problem while the mother worm is still there to counter the toxins, but once the mother worm is removed and the toxins are not controlled, it would be so lethal that it could poison a few adults!”
