

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 420

'As Gorgeous as a Supermodel! Taylor Murray's Secretly-Wedded Wife Exposed?'

'Taylor Murray's Wife Visits the 'War Dragon' Crew on Set!'

'Taylor Murray Has an Intimate Chat With a Mysterious Rich Lady!'

'Taylor Murray's Wife's Identity Revealed: The Genius Heiress of Mitchell Group!'

It took only half a day before Michael occupied the headlines again. The photos attached to the news reports showed Michael in his costume as he talked and joked on set with a lady dressed in a white one-piece dress in a seemingly friendly manner.

Not only that, but the photos even showed them meeting each other in secret at a cafe.

The face of the lady in a white dress was also photographed, and she was none other than Natasha Mitchell.

So Natasha visited the 'War Dragon' crew on set and was photographed by the media in such a coincidence?

This matter was about Natasha, so these entertainment media wouldn't have covered the news like this without her permission. After all, this was the Young Lady of the Mitchell Family that they were talking about! These entertainment media would never dare write up news reports about Natasha without permission from the Mitchell Family and Natasha herself.

The previous tragic incident whereby Faye got herself carried away by a lion after recklessly playing up her relationship with Taylor was still fresh in everyone's mind. Therefore, what gave Natasha the nerve to get Taylor involved in a scandal with her?

After reading the news reports, Sophia immediately booked a plane ticket to the city where the film crew was.

She didn't want to make trouble for Michael, but now that Natasha—the b*tch—had gone to visit the film crew on set, how could she, who was Michael's legally-wedded wife, not go to the film set as well?

However, she couldn't go there just like that. What if she caused unnecessary troubles for Michael by doing so?

She had Maria help her pack her clothes while calling Michael.

Michael was sitting at one side to take a rest after filming a set of important scenes as he took out his cell phone to watch the surveillance footage of the Fletcher Residence. Seeing that Nathan was wiping his tears while doing his homework, he was very satisfied.

You rascal, the tears you're shedding right now are the result of you introducing a boyfriend to your Mom back then!

Suddenly, he received a phone call from Sophia.

Sophia normally wouldn't call Michael while he was on a film set. Usually, she would only call him when he was free to avoid interrupting his filming.

When he answered the phone, Sophia hemmed and hawed a little as she said, "Are you busy, Hubby?"

Lying on the deck chair, Michael smiled mysteriously as he replied, “Not really. I have just finished filming a set of scenes and I am now taking a rest.”

Michael was aware of the love scandal, but he didn't care much about that. After all, the media had too much free time on their hands, and they loved making up nonsensical stories.

They happened to be filming an indoor scene at the cafe when Natasha came to visit them on set, but the media misrepresented it and reported that he and Natasha were meeting in secret.

Luckily, he had no sex scenes in this film, or else, nobody could know what stories the media were going to make up.

However, he thought that it was good to get involved in a scandal occasionally. After all, a marriage had to be spiced up from time to time to make it remain pleasurable, fresh, and also to keep their passion for each other burning.

He couldn't have a heart-rending relationship involving misunderstandings, miscarriages, and infidelity with his pretty young bride every day like the domineering chairmen in romance novels. All he wanted was just to eat and sleep well together with Sophia. When they were free, they would binge on drama shows, play with the cats, and sleep together.

Since he was getting old, he could no longer stand having a tumultuous relationship that was full of ups and down; a peaceful love was all he could wish for. Nevertheless, an occasional 'accident' would be welcomed once in a while.

He had to make Sophia feel sufficiently threatened to keep the feelings between them fresh.

As he had expected, Sophia was alarmed, but she didn't do something foolish like the previous time. She blamed herself a lot after knowing that Michael didn't sleep on a bed for ten days in a row and even skipped meals for entire days in order to finish his filming in Africa so that he could come back to her as early as possible.

This time, she didn't dare to do anything foolish after learning of the matter about Natasha.

After beating around the bush with Michael for a very long time, she finally gave her real intention away by saying hesitantly, "Nicole is on the film set recently, isn't she? I'd like to go to ask her for an autograph."

Michael patiently said to Sophia, "There's no need for that since you're too far away from here. Once the filming is over and she returns to Bayside City, I'll take you to the talent agency to ask her for an autograph."

Sophia fell silent for a moment. Then, Michael heard Maria's voice coming from afar, saying, "Madam, your baggage has been packed. The film studio is located on a hill, and it's a bit cold over there, so I have put a few more jackets in your baggage."

Michael suppressed his laughter while pretending not to hear it.

Sophia seemed to have quickly entered the bathroom. Then, she continued, "Actually... I'm quite bored at home, so I'd like to take on a summer job at the place where you're filming. Your film crew probably needs a lot of personal assistants, continuity supervisors, and extras, I guess..."

Michael interrupted her by asking, "The summer break is almost over, so what summer job could you take up?"

Sophia was tongue-tied. After a while, she thought up another excuse and said, "The new semester will start soon, so I'd like to travel somewhere before that..."

"It's 40 degrees Celsius everywhere. Why would you travel in such hot weather?"

With that, Sophia completely ran out of excuses, rendering the atmosphere awkward.

She just wanted to visit Michael on the film set to keep an eye on some ill-intentioned b*tch while she was at it, but how could she say such an embarrassing reason out loud?

She would miss the plane if she didn't leave home right now, yet she couldn't even think of an excuse to convince Michael.

Just as she was racking her brain for an excuse, Michael suddenly said, "But my film crew is filming in the mountains right now, so it is cooler over here. One of the crew's walk-ons had her leg broken, so you may come to give it a try if you have nothing to do at home. You can also widen your knowledge and gain some life experience while you are at it."

Then, he added, "Your semester will begin late. Since there's still more than half a month left before the new semester starts, you may come over and stay for a few more days to avoid the summer heat."

Sophia was overjoyed at once. As expected, her Lord was attuned to her feelings.

However, what Michael said next was indescribably sweet to her. "More than anything, I miss you."

Michael called his personal assistant over after hanging up the phone.

The instant Sophia booked the plane ticket, he had already gotten news about it. So, he immediately had his personal assistant book a hotel room for her.

Originally, Michael stayed in the same hotel with the film crew, but that would be inconvenient when Sophia came. After all, more people meant more chances for both of them to be seen together. Therefore, he immediately had his assistant book another hotel.

Danny, his personal assistant, quickly trotted up to him and asked, “What is it, Boss? Has Madam arrived? I’m so looking forward to seeing her! Be rest assured. I have gotten everything prepared. Is there anything else you need? Just let me know!”

Michael had ten mysterious and skillful bodyguards, and the one before him right now was Danny, who worked as his personal assistant while he was on set.

Then, Michael cast an eye over the film set and noticed the group of female walk-ons who had come with the film crew.

Since the movie ‘War Dragon’ was about the male protagonist crossing the country to save a group of Cethosian ladies who were trafficked overseas, many female walk-ons had joined the film crew.

These roles were not indispensable, and they didn’t require superb acting skills. Therefore, they were mostly taken up by the investors’ mistresses, goddaughters, and even their own biological daughters.

Michael ran his eyes over the group of female walk-ons. In an instant, five or six of them brazenly made eyes at him.

Tilting his head to one side, Michael said quietly to Danny, “Pick a random female walk-on in the crew and break her leg.”