

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 421

When Sophia left home this time, she brought Maria and a chef from the kitchen along with her in addition to Hale, her bodyguard.

The food on film sets were generally poor in taste. By bringing a chef with her, she could allow Michael to eat something better. He usually ate whatever the rest of the film crew ate on set without voicing any requests, which made Sophia feel sorry for him.

After arriving at the airport, they were picked up by a young man wearing a brightly-colored shirt.

Michael had told her that Danny, his personal assistant, was the most showily-dressed and the most talkative out of his ten bodyguards.

Danny worked as Michael's personal assistant when the latter was on a film set, so he would be on leave whenever Michael went home, which was why they had never had a chance to see him in person. Now that they saw him on this day, they were stunned at the sight of the person before them.

When Danny saw that Sophia was the fair lolita in her sweet youth standing over there, he thought to himself with a sigh, What an extreme taste Boss has for girls. How could he lay his hands on such a young lady?

On the other hand, Sophia saw that Danny was a showily-dressed young man who looked like a peacock.

Not only that, but Danny never seemed to stop talking from the moment she got off the plane until the moment they arrived at the hotel in the film studio.

“Hello, Madam. Ah, you’re so beautiful, Madam. Boss’s judgment has really become better. No wonder he keeps mentioning his chica on set...”

“Oh, Hale, it’s been a long time since we last met! You’re still dashing, handsome, tall, and sturdy as usual. I heard that you have been courting Gwen lately. Have you managed to hold hands with her and kiss her on the lips? Would you mind sharing with me how far your relationship with her has progressed?”

“This little beauty here must be Maria! Nice to meet you! I’m Danny, or you can call me by my nickname Dan. Why aren’t you speaking, little beauty? What is your zodiac sign? I’m a Sagittarius...”

It was quite a distance from the airport to the hotel in the film studio. While Sophia was in the car, she dreamed that she was back in the countryside of Riverdale.

She was opening the duck pen to let the ducks out for a while, but the instant the duck pen opened, the ducks came out in an endless stream and quacked nonstop. Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack...

The film studio was located on the hill; it was a well-known tourist attraction and a great summer resort. Also, the film studio covered most of the county area, so the county earned most of its profit from tourism and by leasing the film studio to film crews.

Sophia had dreamed of traveling back when she was poor. However, she was penniless at the time, so she had to save money for a long time just to get enough money for sightseeing around the ancient Imperial Palace at the center of Bayside City.

When she became rich afterward, however, she didn’t have the time to travel.

This was the first time she came to the film studio. Overwhelmed with curiosity, she kept looking around upon entering the studio.

Danny began talking on and on about the film studio. "This film studio is one of the earliest film studios built in Cethos. Being the largest film studio in Aseanos, it has three major areas with different historical settings: the Ancient Area, the Republican Area, and the Modern Area.

It also has an Outdoor Area, a Military Area, a Sci-Fi Area, and a Foreign Area. We're now in the Ancient Area. Once we get inside later, we can no longer travel by car; we can only walk or ride on a carriage."

Some of the residents here had even been working as walk-ons for generations. Ancient-looking pavilions were everywhere in the Ancient Area, and most of the tourists walking on the streets were dressed in historical costumes.

The street vendors were also dressed in historical costumes so that any film crew that was shooting at this area could clear the scene and start shooting as quickly as possible.

As soon as they entered the Ancient Area, Danny rented some historical costumes and took Sophia to a stylist to have her hair done in the olden style. After that, he took her for a walk around the Ancient Area.

Maria followed behind Sophia in high spirits while wearing a historical costume as well. Meanwhile, Hale was forced to dress in the embarrassing style of a house servant as he walked behind them, whereas Danny was still wearing his showy clothes.

Walking around the area with interest, Sophia kept taking pictures everywhere with the camera in her hand. Whenever she saw that a film crew was filming, she would immediately go near them to take a look.

Since all of this was very new to her, as she continued walking around and taking pictures, she eventually forgot her purpose in coming here.

Over ten film crews were filming in the Ancient Area. Extras were everywhere, and there were tourists dressed in historical costumes and in modern clothes, resulting in a strange scene.

Danny cooperatively took group pictures for them. When Sophia occasionally saw a good-looking extra, she would excitedly ask him or her to take a picture with her.

Dressed in embarrassing clothes, Hale followed Sophia around expressionlessly. He had an earpiece on, and he was on phone conversation all the time.

“Madam has passed through the Glory Gate.”

After a while, he would report something else. “She bought two lollipops and quite enjoyed eating them.”

A few moments later, he said, “She has come under the yellow lantern at the Pryley Gate. The tourists and walk-ons ahead are relatively few, and they are ugly. The atmosphere is just right, and the lighting is fine. You may make a dazzling appearance now...”

They got off the plane in the afternoon. Before they realized it, they had walked until the evening. There were fewer tourists in the area, but many film crews were still filming night scenes.

Lanterns were hung along the streets in the Ancient Area. They were just electric lights disguised as lanterns instead of the real ancient paper lanterns, but the colorful lampshades still looked splendid as the lanterns were lit up.

The entire street looked dreamlike, and those walking along the streets were all actors dressed in historical costumes. Also, there were now fewer tourists wearing modern clothes. As Sophia walked on the street, she felt like having time-traveled to the past. It was as if she had traveled back 1,000 years in time and was enjoying a dreamy night of the olden ages.

Suddenly, she saw a man dressed in a white historical costume walking ahead of her. He was probably an actor, for he had a prop sword with him. Moreover, the film crew of a martial arts blockbuster was filming night scenes nearby.

The man in the white historical costume walked in a hurry with his back to Sophia. She could tell from the aura he gave off that he must be a big name in the entertainment industry.

Thus, Sophia immediately stepped forward to ask the man to take a picture together with her. "Wait a minute, handsome! Can we take pictures together?"

Since there weren't many people between them, Sophia immediately trotted past the crowd toward him.

The actor was walking in a hurry. However, upon hearing Sophia's voice, he paused and looked back.

He was obviously playing the role of a knight. Dressed in a costume as white as snow, he even wore a hat with his face covered by a white veil.

Sophia didn't care whether his face was handsome or not, for she just wanted to take a picture together with him before anything else. So, she said eagerly, "Hi, may I take a picture together with you?"

The hat moved slightly; the person seemed to have nodded.

Sophia immediately had Danny come over to take a picture for them. Posing for the camera with a victory sign, she had a typical tourist photo taken of herself. She seemed not to notice that Maria, who excitedly approached them to have a picture taken together as well, was quickly dragged away by Hale.

Sophia then looked at the photo, which looked awesome. Satisfied, she nodded continuously to the actor, saying, "Thank you. Thank you so much."

Then, a clear and attractive voice came from under the hat. "You're welcome."

Sophia was stunned upon hearing the voice. Her eyes widened at once, and the smile on her face was quickly replaced with a dumbfounded look. As she raised her head to look up at him, the gentle light shone on her face, adding a touch of softness to her facial features. This voice. Isn't he...

The man in white before her slowly lifted the white veil between them with his long fingers, revealing a dazzlingly handsome face.

The man looked drop-dead gorgeous. His eyebrows were thick and smooth with an artificial beauty mark painted between them, while his eyes were unusually attractive and tender. Slightly raising the corners of his lips, he said with a smile, "You can take a couple more pictures of us together. I won't charge you for it."