

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 951

After crying for a long time, Sophia seemed to smell the smell of blood on Michael's body. She quickly leaned back, turned him around and inspected him as she anxiously asked, "How are you? Are you alright? Are you hurt?"

Michael took off his goggles and his eyes were also bloodshot. He replied, "I'm fine."

Then, he bowed his head, kissed her cheek, took her into his arms and whispered, "I'm sorry. I'm sorry that... I made you worry about me."

Sophia wiped her tears away in his arms. "I'm the one at fault. I shouldn't have made an argument out of nothing and I shouldn't scold you in public. It's all my fault."

Michael said, "Both of us did something wrong so this time we are even, okay? Let's not quarrel anymore, alright?"

Sophia replied, "Okay."

The plane flew away with the injured Alice and they withdrew the drones. Everyone had been walking around all morning and since they had finally found Michael, they took out the pot and charcoal from the sled pulled by the dogs. Later, they started a fire and cooked some instant noodles. They rested to replenish their energy and cooked something while watching Sophia and Michael act all lovey-dovey.

Everyone just looked at the two of them bickering for a while in public. They apologized to each other, then they fought to take the blame. In the end, they apologized and forgave each other before they kissed.

Stanley had only eaten some biscuits for breakfast and he didn't sleep much last night. Moreover, he had started the search at the break of dawn so after a long journey, he was feeling hungry. Although the couple kissing made him feel extremely disgusted, it didn't affect his appetite in the least. He ate the instant noodles happily and even drank all of the soup.

As for Harry, he ate some biscuits and drank some of the water that was just boiled. Then, he glanced at the couple that was still kissing and frowned as he yelled, "Can you two stop kissing? It's disgusting!"

Michael completely ignored everyone's complaints. At that moment, he couldn't see or hear anything else other than Sophia who was in front of him.

"I will never ask our pets to catch mice again. They are our children. I was wrong. I will never abuse them again."

Sobbing, Sophia replied, "It's okay, I don't blame you. It's my fault. Cats are born to catch mice."

Michael touched her haggard face and saw that she had dark circles under her eyes. With tears in his eyes, he said, "I will never ask Judge to carry anything ever again. Its paw has been injured before. It's my fault for not being considerate. I shouldn't have done that..."

Sophia replied, "Judge is a sled dog so letting it pull goods is absolutely justified. You did nothing wrong. I was being capricious and didn't think about it from your perspective. Celie already explained to me last night. It's my fault for scolding you before understanding the whole situation."

Celine had been comforting Sophia last night and told her about the situation on set. At that time, they couldn't drive the car to the set so sled dogs were the next best means of transportation. The reason the dogs were exhausted was not because of pulling goods as they usually only brought everyone lunch boxes, chips, coffee and other snacks. The reason they were exhausted was because Celine insisted on bringing them to hunt and ski.

Thanks to the dogs, everybody was fed well. Without the dogs, they couldn't have guaranteed that they would be able to eat hot meals everyday. The crew staff was limited and the local residents often bullied them because they were outsiders.

Thinking about this, Sophia burst into tears again. The more she thought about it, the more guilty she felt.

Michael hugged her tightly, as if he was holding his whole world. Then, he whispered, "Don't leave me, okay? My life was unbearable during the few years you were gone. I thought you were dead and my life was nothing without you. There were many times that I thought about going to heaven with you, but Carmen is still so young. How can I be so cruel to leave her alone in this world? My mother committed suicide because of my father's death and Tanya's threats. My sister and I were too young to understand what was going on when we lost my parents, so I know the feeling. How can I bear to let our darling Carmen live alone? Let us never be apart again, okay?"

...

Dozens of people formed a circle around them and they watched the two of them attentively with their eyes wide open, as if they were watching a TV show...

Because of the blizzard and Michael's accident, even though there were many scenes to shoot, they gave Michael a day off and asked him to rest in the hotel, letting the couple spend some time together.

Celine sensibly ran a long way to buy condoms for them. She even bought lubricant and cooling painkillers. Poor Stanley lived next to Sophia's room and that day, he seemed to have experienced an earthquake that tore his soul apart.

It was freezing cold outside and there was nothing entertaining in town. He had nowhere to go so he stayed in the hotel room and watched television. However, the room next door seemed to be using speakers to play porn at maximum volume. Hearing this, Stanley, who was laying on the bed watching television, was extremely annoyed.

Meanwhile, Sean found some poker cards so he asked Celine, Justine and Stanley to play a few games together. At the end of the day, Stanley lost over 5,000.

After returning from the snow mountains, Sophia didn't leave her room and spent the whole day having s*x with Michael in the hotel room.

If what they did was shot into a pornographic film, it would be more than half a month's worth of content that was usually produced by a pornographic film studio.

They took a short nap when they felt tired, then continued when they woke up, enjoying the energy of their youth and love in bed.

The next morning when Sophia woke up, she felt a sharp pain on her butt.

This is one of the bad points of having a long-distance relationship. My butt hurts every now and then.

Michael woke up early and brought Sophia breakfast. He even put some cooling patches on her butt before he went to set. It was the last few days of filming, and he had to finish filming the scenes and make sure they were of good quality before he could go home for the New Year.

Overworked, Sophia lay on the bed, not wanting to move. In the end, she was woken up by a phone call.

She glanced at her phone and saw that it was at the side, not ringing. Seeing this, she got up and searched around the room before she found that it was Michael's phone that was ringing.

He owned two phones—one for work that was taken care of by Danny, and the other one was a private phone. He had had his private phone with him when he met with the accident, but it was later lost. Sophia had found it, but they were so busy having sex yesterday, she forgot to return his phone to him.

Sophia glanced at the screen and saw that it was an unknown number. After she answered the call, she heard a woman's voice. "Taylor, I've already arrived in Bayside City. I'm in the hospital now and my injuries have been treated. I'm doing fine so you don't have to worry about me."

The voice was sweet and elegant, and there was even a strong sense of confidence. Judging from her tone, she seemed to be really close to Michael.

Sophia knew who she was. Remembering the photo that was an eyesore on the phone, she instinctively felt threatened.

With a smile, she calmly replied, "Hi, my name's Sophia Edwards and I'm Taylor's wife. It's good to hear that you're safe. There's no need to thank Taylor. It was the right thing to do."

Alice was not surprised to hear Sophia's voice. Instead, she spoke to her as if they were close. "I know who you are. You're Taylor's ex-wife. There is a common saying in Cethos that goes, 'An honest man does not resort to insinuation'. Let me make myself clear today: I like Taylor. Since you two are divorced, I'm going to start competing with you."

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 952

Sophia was dumbfounded. She had never met such a straightforward lover before, but she was not afraid of her either. "Thank you for your love for Taylor. Even though he and I are divorced, we are still boyfriend and girlfriend. I won't let you ruin our relationship."

Alice burst into laughter and said, "Miss Edwards, they say only a foolish woman would deal with other women, and a smart woman would directly deal with the man. I'm not going to engage in a meaningless verbal battle with you. The reason I'm competing with you isn't because I want to fight you, it's because I like Taylor and I want him."

Sophia smiled and replied, "However, a wise woman should know that men who are easily seduced by other women are not reliable. If you have the ability to take him away from me, it would mean that he was not worthy of me. Either way, I would not suffer any loss."

After Sophia finished speaking, the two of them went silent, each in their own thoughts. Then, they quietly hung up the phone.

After putting down the phone, Sophia was completely awake. Then, it suddenly occurred to her that she had forgotten to return Alice's phone to her after she found it yesterday.

Alice Michel... I think I've heard of her.

Sophia sprung up and found Alice's phone. It was still locked and there were a few missed calls from 'My love'. She stared at the phone and after a long struggle, she decided to see what was in it.

Sophia turned on the computer, connected Alice's phone wirelessly, and hacked into her mobile phone.

Mobile phones produced by factories of Michel Communications were all military-grade. The system was very special so the security coefficient was high and viruses couldn't infect it. It was also impossible for ordinary people to crack.

Alice's phone was the latest model in the market and it was highly secure. The current price of one of these phones was about 6,000 US dollars.

Michel mobile phones were mostly made for business purposes and they didn't consider the needs of female users when it was manufactured. Thus, the design of the phone didn't have any gender-defining characteristics. Most of the users were successful businessmen and businesswomen.

Alice is said to be a photographer so her beauty standards should be really high. I didn't expect her to use a Michel phone that looks like a brick.

Even though Sophia also used this model, her phone had a screen protector and her phone case was pink with two bunny ears.

Sophia usually could easily crack Michel mobile phones but Alice's phone was really special. She couldn't crack it with ordinary means.

This is interesting...

However, Sophia wasn't willing to give up. At first, she thought it didn't matter if she didn't look at Alice's phone, but she never thought she couldn't crack a phone that was produced by her father's company. It was an embarrassment as a Michel herself.

Thus, she spent the whole day sitting in front of the computer, typing on the keyboard nonstop. It took her two days to finally crack the security system of Alice's phone. After successfully unlocking it, she turned on the phone and found her various chat records.

Her eyes gleamed as she searched for clues in Alice's phone gallery. At the same time, she was having an internal moral debate.

She already openly admitted to wanting to be Michael's lover. Taking a peek at her phone gallery probably isn't indecent... Well, it isn't.

As expected, there were many photographs of Michael in Alice's phone gallery, but most of them were captured by herself. Michael didn't look at the camera in almost all of the images. The only photo of them together was actually cropped from a group photo of the crew, and Alice just happened to be standing next to Michael.

Her phone was oddly simple. There wasn't any chat softwares, her mailbox was empty, there were only a few saved contacts in her phone, and her communication records were all erased.

This isn't right. I probably triggered some kind of security defense system. When the system senses that somebody is forcibly cracking into the phone, it will automatically back up all information before destroying important information stored in the phone.

Later, Sophia stared at a selfie in Alice's photo album in a daze.

Alice Michel.

Then, she turned on her computer and logged into the genealogy system. Even though the Michel family was very old and the family name was passed down from the Middle Ages to the modern age, their ancestors were really advanced! They had already set up their own family website and forum twenty years ago, and they also had an electronic version of the genealogy record book.

Sophia logged into the genealogy record system and typed in 'Alice Michel'. Many family members' data popped up. After all, the Michel family was a big family and there were over 10,000 people in the genealogy record book. It was normal to have the same name and there were dozens of family members with the name Alice. Fortunately, there were photos.

However, Sophia found the Alice she was looking for among the dozens of people at a glance, because Alice's photo was really special. The other family members all used ID photos with clear facial features, but Alice's photo was just a photo of her shot from the back.

Generally, people would be extremely cautious when uploading a photo to the genealogy record system. They mostly chose artistic and beautiful ID photos. However, people who were truly capable didn't care much about the genealogy record book so they were not that cautious. The more casual the photos and information the person uploaded, the higher their status.

Alice's photo was a photo of her back, Linus's photo was a photo of a cat paw, Cooper didn't even bother to upload a photo, but Sophia was the most powerful as she didn't even bother to enter her name into the genealogy record book.

Then, Sophia saw Alice's profile.

'Vice President of the Michel Group. President and Chief Engineer of Michel High-Tech Information Technology Group. One of the developers of Michel mobiles.'

Her profile was really simple. The information was clear at a glance without any fancy descriptions.

In that instant, Sophia already knew who she was. She was Linus's sister, the daughter of Linus's adoptive parents.

After Sophia returned to the Michel family, Cooper had been protecting her so her identity had not been exposed to the outside world yet. Outsiders only knew that Cooper had a daughter named Lucile. There weren't many people who had seen her in person and Sophia had not met Alice.

Both Alice and Linus had extraordinary prestige in the Michel Group and Michel family. Alice was also Linus's strongest competitor. Fass once publicly announced that the future family head of the Michel family would only be chosen among Linus and Alice.

However, Cethosian people generally believed that women were weaker than men and women shouldn't inherit the family business, which was why Cethosians regarded Linus as the future family head. However, Linus was never the only one. He was only a possible candidate.

Although Cooper liked Linus and wished to pass on everything to him, if Linus was not as powerful as his sister, Cooper would still change his mind.

As for Sophia... Even though Cooper loved her, he would only favor the strong when it came to matters related to family inheritance. He was now working hard to lay the foundation of another family business for Sophia to inherit. If he confirmed that Sophia didn't have the ability to inherit the business, he would probably give up on her, which was why he was also working hard to train Carmen and Sean to be Sophia's back up to ensure that he would have a successor.

If Sophia really had the ability to defeat Alice and Linus, the Michel family and Mitchell family businesses would be hers. However, if she wasn't capable enough to inherit any, she couldn't blame Cooper.

After Sophia found out that Alice was Linus's sister, her palms were sweaty.

I didn't expect it to be her

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 953

I've heard stories about Linus's sister before. She seems to live a simple life and she likes to stay low-key. Furthermore, she likes photography and travelling around the world.

A mysterious look suddenly appeared on Sophia's face...

Sophia never doubted Michael's loyalty, but she felt uneasy when there was a powerful woman trying to pursue her man. Moreover, this woman was brought up by Cooper himself so she had learned Cooper's methods and had a smart brain that was comparable to Linus.

Sophia was very jealous of Alice's capabilities and she envied that Alice grew up with Cooper around. At the same time, a raging fire ignited in her heart.

I can do it too.

As for why Alice had appeared on set as a photographer, Sophia could pretty much guess the reason.

Clearly, Cooper's wishful thinking was wrong and Michael withstood his test. A love that has gone through the test of life and death is not that fragile. I'm going to prove to him that Michael and I can't be separated!

In fact, Sophia understood Cooper's efforts. He mentioned to Sophia more than once that it was easy for Michael to marry Sophia Edwards and Scarlett Mitchell. However, it would be hard for him to marry Lucile Michel.

Once a Western woman got married, she would take on her husband's surname and give up her maiden surname. The same rule applied to the Michel Family. The family could allow Sophia to be the family head of the Mitchell Family with her identity as Scarlett Mitchell. However, if Sophia married Michael, she would have to completely cut ties with the Michel Family just like Cooper's mother, Beyoncé. She couldn't even keep in contact with Cooper and Linus.

It would also be difficult for Michael to change his surname. Theo Fletcher was dead and he only had two children, so Mark and the Fletcher Family would not allow Michael to change his surname. Furthermore, Michael was part of the Fletcher Family. Even though he wasn't in the army, he was a descendant of a military family. If he got married, although he wasn't strictly required to ask Sophia to go through a political investigation like a military marriage, if he really married the daughter of the world's second largest arms dealer, the relationship between the military and the Fletcher Family would be stretched.

How could they be sure that Michael wouldn't secretly reveal Cethos's military secrets to the Michel Family? The relationship behind this was too complicated and profound...

Cooper was really cautious when it came to family inheritance matters. The family head of an aristocratic family was never hereditary. The reason Cooper became the family head of the Mitchell Family and Michel Family was not because his father and grandfather were family heads, it was because he had the ability to become a family head and he was the best candidate in the family. If Sophia didn't have the abilities to inherit the family businesses, he wouldn't force it on her because it would only bring her and the family harm.

Cooper also hinted to Sophia many times that he hoped that Sophia would be recognized by the Michel Family for her abilities, and that she could make a place for herself in the Michel Family with her own strength.

However, Cooper was even more afraid of the day that he would be gone and Sophia would not be able to take care of herself. Which was why he hoped that a strong son-in-law could protect her and help her gain a foothold in the Michel family.

But Michael's influence was only in the East. Furthermore, he had a sensitive status of being a member of the Fletcher Family so he couldn't interfere with the Michel Family's matters.

It would be best for Sophia to marry a man from the Michel family, such as Linus.

Linus was really capable but he was an adopted son after all, so he didn't have the power of being from the same bloodline. Although Sophia was the first daughter of Cooper, her ability was not strong enough to convince the others. If the two of them were combined, they would benefit each other and it would be perfect.

This was Cooper's plan but Sophia had her own plans too.

Why must I find a man to protect me?! Can't I protect myself? Give me ten years and I'll make the whole Michel family recognize my abilities! F*ck the Western concept of a family. Why should I change my surname when I get married?! My mother gave me the name of Sophia Edwards and this is the name that I will keep for this lifetime! I won't change my name no matter who I marry! I want to marry Michael but I still won't change my surname! Right now, I just need more time. I believe that I can be strong!

With a few more days to go before the completion of Michael's movie filming, Sophia simply stayed in the hotel and decided to wait for Michael to finish his job so that they could return to Bayside City together.

She also understood the crew's dilemma. Eating was indeed a big problem for them. Dining cars couldn't go up the mountains and it was a waste of manpower to carry pots and pans, which was why she decided to send two helicopters to deliver food to the crew.

As a result, the filming crew all gained new insights that day.

It's nice to have a rich wife...

However, there was no suitable place for landing on the mountain so they could only send the food down while hovering in the sky and it felt a little too much. When they wanted to eat some snacks, they needed to send it using helicopters so the crew felt embarrassed. One trip would probably cost more than 1,000.

If they asked the bodyguards to deliver the food... It still felt overwhelming so everyone was too embarrassed to place orders.

After doing some calculations, they found that letting the dogs deliver the food was the most cost-effective, the most environmentally friendly, and the cheapest way.

Judge had become muscular from all the food delivery. He didn't have anything to do for the past two days, so he tore the hotel apart. Judge did so much damage that Stanley was blacklisted by that hotel, along with many other hotels in the town. There was nowhere he could stay anymore so he prepared to return to Bayside City.

Sophia analysed the situation and after careful consideration, she decided to let Cerberus continue to stay and deliver food. She even sent Snowball over and ordered four professionally-trained Alaskan dogs to help. In the end, she had eight dogs specially sent over to deliver food to Michael and play with Celine.

Sophia had also upgraded their dining trucks and the thermal boxes to deliver their food. She even contacted the nearest vegetable shed to deliver the freshest ingredients every day, and repaired the road up to the mountains to make it easier for the sled dogs to deliver goods.

My husband's meals are more important than everything else... It's okay for the dogs to be a little tired.

Stanley was dumbfounded.

"You... This... I..."

How can she be so shameless?!

"You're abusing the dogs! Do you know that?!"

Stanley was so furious, he grabbed Judge and ran away. He was determined to not let Sophia bully his 'son' and was ready to leave the next day.

However, Judge bit through the hotel room door and ran away that night. The next morning, he happily followed the crew to the set.

Sophia had arranged four subordinates for him and all the tips would be paid to him, so only a fool would leave. Seeing this, Stanley was so angry, he directly went back to Bayside City and announced that he would sever ties with his 'son'.

Under the care of his beloved wife, Michael was full of energy. He did his best to finish filming his scenes, and everything ended smoothly.

After they finished filming, Sophia delivered the Alaskan dogs back to where they came from and sent Cereberus and Snowball back to Bayside City. She and Michael were not in a hurry to go home—they travelled around and went back just before new year celebrations.

Edwards residence, which had a history of more than a hundred years, was about to welcome three huskies who had developed strong muscles. Everyone in the house trembled in fear...

Cooper was really mad at Sophia.

It's hard to keep my grown up daughter by my side and all she does is make me worry about her. She hasn't returned until now, but she sent the dogs back.

Those three energetic and muscular huskies kept causing chaos. As soon as they returned home, they started to forcefully demolish the house. The house was made out of wood so it couldn't withstand their attacks. As a result, Dimon sent men to take the dogs out for walks everyday, and ordered them to only return after they were exhausted. However, the scary thing was even though the dog walker was exhausted, the dogs were still full of energy.

My daughter is out playing with that b*stard, I can't find my son, my brother is busy with work, and Carmen is busy with school.

Cooper was a pitiful, lonely old man, and he was even tortured by the dogs.

Cooper's roars echoed in the Edwards residence everyday.

"Judge, let go of my slippers!"

"Snowball, do you want to be turned into mush?!!"

"Cash, get out of here!!!"

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 954

In the teahouse, Cooper burst out an earth-shaking roar after seeing that his chessboard had a corner bitten off by Cash, that husky. That completely ignited his rage.

Startled, Cash fled like lightning.

After that, Cooper finally sat down and continued the game.

With the chessboard that had a corner chewed off by Cash, Cooper and Daniel played a few rounds in which Cooper kept losing.

Listening to Cooper's frustrated scream and calling out names, Daniel felt amused.

"Dogs protect homes so it's beneficial to have many of them."

Lately, Daniel had been visiting Cooper's house frequently because Sophia planned to renovate the house, so she asked him to check their feng shui. Therefore, he often dropped by to take a look and while he was here, he took the opportunity to have a few chess games and chats with Cooper as well as some tea.

While collecting the chess pieces, Daniel commented, "Mr. Mitchell, you've been extremely peevish and impetuous lately, which isn't how you usually are."

Without replying to him, Cooper slapped Cash to stop him from chewing the table and only then did he answer, "If you know you have a son but you can't find him, you'll be as disturbed as me, Master Levine."

Daniel had started to grow his hair long and he had put his hair up with a hair stick. Wearing a loose Taoist robe, he seemed divine. At that moment, he smiled and said, "Unfortunately, I'm not you and I don't have a son. So, I can't put myself in your shoes."

Cooper snorted in reply.

Daniel continued, "You and your son's fate hasn't ended so you'll meet him again. There's no need to be anxious, Mr. Mitchell."

Cooper snorted again.

"Mr. Levine, you'll eventually have a child one day and by that time, you'll understand my feelings."

Keeping his silence, Daniel smiled and continued to play chess with Cooper.

How would he have a son when he was living a leisure and carefree life?

Suddenly, Dimon came in and whispered in Cooper's ears. Then, Cooper said, "Please excuse me."

It was afternoon now and Daniel had been at the Edwards Residence since lunch. He planned to have dinner here as well before going home.

The two huskies sneaked back in again and lay down under the table to take a nap. Rubbing his foot on the husky's head, Daniel found it rather comfortable.

Ever since he was forced by Michael to find Cooper, he had been risking his life every day to carry out his task. If he failed, Michael might really send the Cereberus to Reverie Mountain judging from his character.

Fortunately, he made some progress lately. Although Cooper hadn't given in, Daniel knew that his heart had started to waver.

However, Daniel also keenly sensed that Cooper had an important reason for prohibiting Sophia to marry Michael.

Nevertheless, he had promised Michael so he had to fulfil his task.

Looking at the chessboard, he racked his brain, trying to figure out what that important reason was.

The aroma of the tea that filled the room refreshed his mind. As Michael's think tank, Daniel always considered things comprehensively. He felt that Cooper didn't only oppose their marriage because of Michael himself, but also his family and Sophia.

In the beginning, Cooper joined the Michel Family as an outsider. Although he had secured his position in the family, Sophia hadn't. Besides, she had lost all her memories as well as her skills and tricks. Therefore, she had to start from scratch again. In this state, it would be a misnomer to introduce her to the world as the first Young Lady of the Michel Family.

That was why Cooper kept delaying and didn't allow her to return to the Michel Family. He was actually protecting her.

Surely, Cooper could protect her now, but what if he wasn't around one day? How would Sophia gain a foothold in the Michel Family?

Therefore, Sophia's marriage was critical. If she could marry someone that would establish her in the Michel Family...

Obviously, Michael wasn't that person because his area of influence was in the East. To the Michel Family, he was a foreigner so they definitely wouldn't accept him.

In short, Cooper was afraid that Michael couldn't protect Sophia.

Besides, when Michael and Sophia got married in the past, it was only between them. The Fletcher Family didn't oppose their marriage back then since Sophia was from a clean family background but if they got married now, it would involve the Michel and Fletcher Family.

In the midst of pondering, Carmen came home from kindergarten and greeted her grandpa from the yard with her sweet, lively voice.

As soon as Carmen got home, she realized that there was a guest.

"Hey there, where did you come from?"

In the yard stood a boy who was five or six years old with black hair and fair skin. He was patting the alpaca when Carmen called him. Upon hearing that, he turned around, revealing his mesmerizing sapphire blue eyes and flawless features. He was undoubtedly an extremely handsome boy.

At that moment, Carmen felt that she was falling in love.

After glancing at Carmen, the boy continued patting the alpaca before he slowly replied, "I came with my mommy."

Carmen was overjoyed while she frolicked around him, calling him 'big brother' whenever she could. She was sweet and obedient and soon enough, she and the boy became friends.

In the tearoom, Daniel took a glance outside and noticed that although the boy had western facial features, he had black hair, causing Daniel to wonder if he dyed his hair.

In addition, that boy's sapphire blue eyes were captivating, which was one of the Michel Family's traits.

The bloodline of the Michel Family was dominant. Even if the child was mixed-race, he or she would gradually grow to have westernized features, such as Cooper.

When Cooper was young, he had eastern facial features but as he grew, his features became more and more western. Even the color of his eyes started to change, which was extremely magical. Linus was even more magical because even though he only had a quarter of the Michel Family's bloodline, he had western facial features ever since he was born.

When Daniel found Sophia 20 years ago, she was an ugly duckling and there wasn't a trace showing that she was a mixed-race. As she grew older, her skin became fairer and fairer while her features became deeper. Gradually, the traits of being a mixed-race person became evident. After 10 years, when she came back, her eye color had changed and she looked completely different.

Meanwhile, Carmen and the boy happily played with each other. She didn't even bother to put down her bag before rushing off to show her pet dogs and cats to the boy.

The boy, named Casper, had brought a small robot with him. Since Nathan's university had ended the term early for winter and his parents were on a vacation, he had been staying in Edwards Residence. While staying here, he took care of the children and was responsible for fetching Carmen to and from her kindergarten. Today was the last day of class in kindergarten and Carmen would start her winter break too.

The three children played happily together and they were watching movies while patting the cat in the living room. At the same time, Carmen was extremely eager to introduce her superhero father, who saved the world and fought aliens, to Casper, so she asked Shae to play Michael's movie in the home theatre.

However, before they could even finish the movie, Carmen had impatiently brought Casper to meet Daniel as if she was about to introduce him to her parents.

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 955

"Mr. Psychic, this is my new friend, Casper. I call him Cas."

Carmen addressed Daniel as 'Mr. Psychic', which was a pet name for a protector. Having a protector was an old local custom to Bayside's aborigines. It was said that a child had poor health because he lacked something in his life, so he had to find a senior who had a compatible birthdate to be his protector. Since a protector could provide safety to a child as he grew, they were something like godparents.

Coincidentally, Daniel and Carmen had perfectly compatible birthdates, so he became her protector. That was why Carmen had been calling him 'Mr. Psychic'.

That name actually had a profound meaning. Even though Harry was also Carmen's godfather, he only became her godfather because of his relationship with her parents. On the contrary, Daniel had an important reason to be her protector.

Besides, he was extremely effective as a protector judging from how healthy Carmen was now compared to her condition when she was born. Although her father, Michael, was the main contributor for her good health, Daniel had also contributed as her protector. After all, contributing to a psychological effect was also a contribution.

On another note, even though Mark was Cooper's godfather, a protector was actually a more appropriate role for him. However, since Cooper didn't have any other godfather, they combined the two roles into one.

When it came to Carmen, godfather and protector were two separate roles. The fact that Carmen called Daniel her protector made Cooper think twice about chopping Daniel up.

To be honest, Daniel loved to be called 'Mr. Psychic'.

After all, it sounded like he was someone precious too.

"I see Carmen has made a new friend. Come, let me give you a present for our first meeting."

Daniel searched all over himself only to realize that he didn't bring anything meaningful to be given as a gift. Therefore, he gave Casper his sandalwood bracelet.

Casper examined the bracelet, looking smart. Then, he took it from Daniel and kept it in his pocket. At the same time, he followed how Carmen addressed Daniel and said, "Thank you, Mr. Psychic."

He didn't know Daniel's name so he thought that his name was 'Mr. Psychic'.

Although Casper looked like he was from the west, he spoke fluent Cethosian language. Obviously, he learned the language from a young age. Of course, a child from the Michel

Family wouldn't be mediocre, and his parents must have high status in the family since he was allowed in Cooper's house.

Daniel didn't rectify Casper and instead, he ruffled his black hair.

Casper's parents are quite irresponsible to allow such a young child to dye his hair, he thought.

After playing at Daniel's place for some time, Carmen brought Casper to another place. Meanwhile, Daniel continued to analyse the chess game while waiting for Cooper to return and finish this round of game.

In Cooper's study, a woman was sitting gracefully on the sofa with her long, blonde hair elegantly draped over her shoulder. She was wearing a simple yet tasteful lavender long dress and a nude pantyhose. Currently, she was reporting some work progress to Cooper.

After a brief report, Cooper asked with care, "Alice, how is your injury?"

That woman was none other than Alice.

Touching her wound, Alice replied, "It's just a superficial wound so it's not a big deal. Besides, Mr. Fletcher is an expert in treating wounds and since it was treated in time, it's almost recovered now."

Cooper nodded and said, "Sorry for troubling you this time."

Alice smiled heartily and replied, "It's not troublesome at all. I've always wanted to visit Cethos so this is a great opportunity to fulfil my wish. Unfortunately, I seem to have failed the task you gave me, Fass."

Speaking of that, Alice couldn't help but sigh before continuing, "I've been trying to contact Mr. Fletcher lately, but he seems to be ignoring me."

Naturally, Alice only went to Michael's film set upon receiving Cooper's tacit consent and Linus's instruction.

Linus was the one who told Alice to seduce Michael. Although Cooper felt that it was unethical, he was eager to find out if Michael would pass the test, so he agreed to it tacitly.

If Alice successfully seduced Michael, Cooper could chase him away rightfully and without guilt.

But the fact was that Michael was completely uninterested in Alice.

Cooper seemed to feel relieved but right after that came heavy-heartedness and anger.

That jerk! He's so pervy to Sophia and even crawled through a dog hole for her, but in front of the other women, he became a boring, unromantic man. He even pretended to be proud and indifferent. What a hypocritical, cunning man!

It seemed like he wouldn't give Sophia up.

That made Cooper feel gratified and heavy-hearted at the same time.

If he opposed their relationship, he was afraid that he would fail his conscience, which he had just retrieved.

But still, he had to consider this matter thoroughly since it was Sophia's marriage.

Seeing that Cooper repeatedly knitted and relaxed his eyebrows while remaining silent, Alice asked tentatively, "Fass, should I continue with the task? I feel that I'm out of the running for seducing him because Mr. Fletcher is strong-willed. Besides, I don't have any better ideas at the moment."

Alice had made several attempts on set, such as finding an opportunity to let Michael inadvertently glance at her phone so that he could see the photo that she set as her wallpaper, or his name that was saved in her contacts. These attempts aimed to let Michael realize her feelings toward him, which was actually fake.

However, Michael had ignored them and was totally unmoved.

She even started to doubt if Michael was truly a man. Otherwise, how could he be completely unmoved at a flawless woman's pursuit?

Even when he was treating the wound on her waist when they were in the cave, he didn't even glance anywhere else when he took off her shirt and treated the wound with the fastest and the most expert skills. After that, he left her to survive on her own.

Even worse, he'd rather let her pee in her pants than help her to the toilet.

When they returned to Bayside City, Alice tried again and even hinted at Sophia. Yet, she realized that all her tricks were useless and nothing, not even a strand of hair, could get in between Michael and Sophia, let alone a person.

Knowing that she had failed her task, Alice immediately sought Cooper's advice.

After some time, Cooper finally replied, "You can stop the task. Since you're injured, you should rest."

In this plot, he aimed to sow discord between Sophia and Michael through Alice, whereas Linus aimed to stir trouble after testing them. In the end, they didn't find anything out of the ordinary nor manage to sow any discord. Instead, Sophia became even more inseparable from Michael. Perhaps she was stressed and felt the competitive pressure, she sneaked out and went to travel around with Michael. Now, she even refused to come home, abandoning Carmen, who still needed to be taken care of, and him, who was waiting eagerly for her to return.

Alice said, "I plan to expand Michel Communications in Cethos, so I'll be staying in Bayside for some time."

Michel mobile phones were widely favored overseas but in Cethos, its market seemed to be limited, which was actually a consequence of Michel Group not realizing the importance of Cethos's market previously. But now, even Linus had personally come to expand the market in Cethos. Naturally, Alice would give him a run for his money.

There was a huge potential for this market that had a population of more than 1 billion. Therefore, Alice had wild ambitions to conquer this market!