

Chapter 135

Instead of sending her back to Lin's house.

That means that in the future, she can stay in the same room with Arron, and get in and out of it right?

Hehe!

Lanita happily got in the Christopher car and left the engagement hotel.

At the other end, Arron drove slowly along the main road, not knowing where to go.

At the same moment, Suzi had already come downstairs in the company where she was working. When she was about to call Joan, Joan called: "Suzi, I'm busy here, so I won't pick it up. You, can you take a taxi by yourself?"

Suzi said in an obedient tone: "Of course it does, Young Master Ling."

Joan heard the gentleness in Suzi's tone, and asked her in a wicked tone: "Just so willing to be good to me? Willing to do everything for me?"

Suzi smiled more softly: "Mr. Ling, do you doubt my sincerity to you? Then I will say it again, I am willing to do everything for you, you let me do what I do, even if it is to sacrifice my life, I am willing."

Joan smiled: "I didn't expect you to look cold and forbidden from bathing when it's cold, but when you get up, you are still enthusiastic?"

Suzi: "..."

She knew that his mouth was poor, he always didn't keep the door on his mouth, and liked to make some dirty words, but when he said that she was cheap, her face still couldn't hang on.

Suzi was never a b!tch.

At that end, Joan couldn't see Suzi's reaction. He continued, "However, I guessed it. Your reaction is the same as I guessed it."

Suzi didn't understand what Joan guessed at the beginning. She only asked patiently on the phone: "Young Master Ling, where do you want me to take a taxi? Give me the address." The top floor of the "Midnight Meili" clubhouse. Inside the largest private room.

Meili late at night?

Suzi has heard of this place, but has never been to it.

She only knew that it was a rich man's selling gold cave, so Mr. Ling must often spend money in it. Suzi said on the phone, "Okay, I'll take a taxi right away."

After closing the line, she called a taxi and went straight to the location of 'Midnight Meili'.

Along the way, she was doing heart-building for herself over and over again.

At the other end, Joan and his best buddy Sanford were smoking cigars outside the private room.

"Lao Ze, are you okay?" Sanford persuaded Joan.

Joan smirked: "Mr. Ling, you are immortal, don't tell me, do you fall in love with her? If you fall in love with her, I will give it to you for nothing, hehe!"

Sanford: "..."

"Let me tell you, our bet, I won, Lao Ze, you are ready to lose to me the most expensive sports car in your garage! You know she treats me more than a hundred Follow Baishun, how passionate is it?" Joan smiled triumphantly at Sanford.

Sanford smiled dryly.

The two squeezed out the cigar, opened the door of the private room together, and went in.

In the private room, all kinds of noisy laughter were very boiling.

After half an hour, Suzi took a taxi to come here, and then took the elevator to the restaurant, according to the location pointed by the waiter, she came to the largest box.

The moment he pushed the door in, Suzi was stunned.

Chapter 136

There were 20 or 30 men sitting in the box, of which only Joan and Sanford were acquainted with Suzi.

The remaining people are either dyed with dazzling yellow hair, or are dressed in heavy metal clothing, or are hangers with cigarettes in their mouths.

The eyes they looked at Suzi were all looking at Suzi like prey.

But Suzi didn't know any of them.

Opposite twenty or thirty men, three women sat.

The three women wore very economical, and they all wore one-shoulder miniskirts.

Suzi glanced at everyone in the private room, and felt in his heart that the situation here was definitely more overdone than the last time on the cruise ship.

She turned around and left without even thinking about it. However, as soon as she took a step, she was stopped by one of the three women: "Oh, another fellow is here, come in and sit down, look at you, Isn't it too conservative to wear? It's not okay to wear such a conservative to such a place."

Suzi immediately blushed and yelled: "I am not one of your colleagues!"

"Yeah, Mr Ling didn't introduce you like that. Mr Ling said that your skills are extremely deep, and you will be most circumscribed. He said that you can walk among four or five men at the same time. How many are there from Young Master Ling?" One of the women got up and came to Joan and took a seat, asking Suzi and Joan at the same time.

Joan pulled the woman down on her lap, his eyes rolled: "I do the math, I know there are four, yes, four!"

After speaking, Joan glanced at Sanford, who was sitting on the most fringe, and said, "Lao Ze, I will give you this local girl, Suzi, as one of your benefits. But the premise is that you have it. I won the other four brother-in-laws."

Sanford: "..."

He and Joan are the ironiest buddies, and they often go in and out of places with Joan to drink meat and wine, which is commonplace.

However, today's scene was so hot that Sanford's eyes were so hot that he almost blinded his eyes.

These professional women are not comparable to Suzi.

Sanford glanced at Suzi subconsciously.

Suzi's face had long since disappeared, and Sanford's pale face made Sanford frightened, fearful and sympathetic. Sanford raised his hand and poked Joan, and said in a low voice, "Mr. Ling, you are too much. The little girl didn't offend you."

Joan smiled carelessly: "She? Little girl? I'm afraid it's the little girl her mother already!"

Sanford: "...". He looked at Suzi with puzzled eyes.

Suzi's face became paler, but her tone was calm: "Young Master Ling, what do you mean?"

Joan raised her eyebrows and smirked: "Go, sit among the twenty masters, and I will give you a big money-making business."

Suzi didn't move, but only asked, "What kind of business?"

Joan pointed to a dozen men and said, "It's all yours. See if you can make millions today?"

Sanford suddenly decided: "Mr. Ling, it's too much! What do you think of Suzi!"

Joan smiled and whispered in Sanford's ear.

Sanford looked at Suzi in an incredible moment.

Joan looked at Suzi again with a smile: "Hurry up and work, I wish you a millionaire today."

At this moment, Joan's face was so disgusting and disgusting, he had always looked down on such an extremely shabby local girl from the bottom of his heart.

Suzi is.

So is my little aunt.

Look down on it, look down on it, you have to play if you deserve it. However, what Joan didn't expect was that the spotless local girl he thought innocent was actually pregnant!

She was pregnant!

A poor woman of Tubula who was pregnant, but pretended to be like a lotus saint in front of him!

How could Joan swallow this breath?

He has always been Joan playing with others, is it possible that he will be tricked by a local girl?