Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 231 by Adolf Dunne

Four years later, at the airport of Apliaria. The big screen in the airport was broadcasting the recent entertainment news. “Recently, the famous actress Susan Salazar told the media that her wedding with Victor, the CEO of the Sullivan Group will be held soon.” Suddenly, the host’s voice stopped, and the big screen suddenly turned black and then messy codes were shown. “So noisy.”

A little boy with a schoolbag on his back and a tablet PC in his hand was standing at the exit, lowering his head and muttering impatiently with a frown. And if someone stood behind the little boy, he would find that the series of codes on the tablet in his hand were the same as those on the airport screen.

The little boy looked at the screen with satisfaction. His grape like eyes twinkled with complacency. ‘Finally, quiet.’ However, the quietness did not last long. In an instant, there were screams coming from behind, and it immediately became noisy again. “Ahhh! Susie, you are so beautiful!” “Susie, can you sign here for me?”

“Miss Salazar, I heard that the reason why you asked for leave from the crew this time is to go back to Apliaria to get married with Mr. Sullivan?” “Miss Salazar...”

The little boy turned around and looked at the woman who was surrounded by a lot of people not far away. He slowly pulled down the sunglasses on the bridge of his nose and looked at her up and down for a while, showing a look of disgust. He muttered. "So this is my stepmother?"

With a gentle smile on her face, Susan Salazar's eyes curved slightly, giving people a sense of elegance and gentleness. However, the lachrymal mole below her right eye eyelid added charming beauty to her. She was famous for her elegant and gentle temperament. Seeing that more and more fans were crowding over with the media, the assistant had to stretch out her hands to stop them from approaching. She shouted. "Excuse us! Please let us by! Stop squeezing!" However, no matter how loudly she shouted, few people listened to her. The assistant could not help but feel a little angry. When she noticed the little boy standing not far away and blocking the way, she immediately shouted.

In Apliaria airport "Well..." Looking at the little boy, Susan couldn't help feeling impatient and annoyed. She had never thought that the little boy would be so difficult to deal with. "Is it so difficult to answer this question?" He tilted his head to one side. Although he covered his big eyes with sunglasses, he looked so pure and kind that it was hard to connect him with Joe, who had made Quintin so angry.

When Susan was thinking about how to answer, a man's voice came. "Miss Salazar." A man came over with a bunch of flowers in his hands. His eyes were cold and he called Susan with respect. The little boy looked in the direction of the voice. The man looked familiar. Before the little boy could remember where he had seen this man, Susan beside him said first, "Ivan." Ivan?

He remembered! The special assistant of his father! Under the little boy's sunglasses, his round eyes looking at the man who had already walked up to him. He looked like a decent man, what a pity he worked for Victor. 2 The little guy sighed. Ivan heard his sigh. He lowered his eyes and then noticed the little boy in front of him.

He was stunned for a moment, and inexplicably felt an indescribable sense of familiarity. But it just flashed through his mind. Susan was a star and wherever she went, there would be fans. In order to attract attention, some fans would take their children with them. This little boy might be the child of some fans.

Ivan handed the flowers to Susan, "Miss Salazar, this is from Mr. Sullivan. Congratulations on winning the best actress of Brandy Award." A week ago, at the Brandy Award ceremony, which was held every four years, Susan was highly praised by the judges. With high scores, she won the best actress, which was the first major prize she won.

Chapter 233 Anywhere But Apliaria

As soon as Joey got in the car, the video call from Quintin came. Joey stood up, shook his legs and pressed the answer button. The next second, Quintin's face came into view

“Uncle Quintin.” Joey smiled and took off his sunglasses. A sly light flashed in his big eyes. “Uncle Quintin, it took you more time than I expected. I thought I could get your call as soon as I got off the plane, but it’s been an hour since I got off the plane. You didn’t see the video until now?”

Joey was not surprised and nervous at all when he received the video call from Quintin. Instead, he answered the phone calmly. But the calmer he was, the angrier Quintin felt. “Joe!” Quintin gritted his teeth and shouted, “Get your ass back!” “No.” Joey had already prepared for this, so he moved the iPad a little further and refused decisively. Quintin’s temple throbbed. Looking at the livid face of Quintin, Joey put the tablet in front of him with a sweet smile and called softly, “Uncle Quintin.”

Looking at Joey’s face on the screen, the corners of Quintin’s eyes twitched. Joey was a smart boy since he was a child. Ever since the first time he opened his eyes and cried, he knew how to read people’s face to decide whether he could get what he wanted through crying. When he was a little older and became a toddler, he would not cry to solve problems like ordinary kids, but smile. Although Victor was a jerk, he had good genes.

Then, as Joey listened to the instructions of Quintin, he kept in mind Andy’s phone number in case of need. The care drove in front of a hotel. “Uncle Quintin, I’ve arrived at the hotel.” After paying the fare, Joey got out of the car with his schoolbag on his back and walked straight to the front desk of the hotel.

“Well, stay in your room and don’t walk around! Especially at night, okay?” “I know, Uncle Quintin. It’s the third time you said.” As Joey said, he couldn’t help yawning. After ten hours of flight, he took a taxi for one and a half hours to the hotel. He felt bit sleepy now.

Looking at Joey, Quintin frowned and said with worry, “I’m serious. Joe, keep it in mind!” “Don’t run around, don’t eat anything strangers give me, don’t expose who I am, and don’t take off my watch, Call you every day. If I meet any trouble, call Andy.” Joey repeated the instructions skillfully.

Seeing that Joey remembered all his words, Quintin felt relieved. Although Quintin had been bagging, Joey knew that he was worried that he would be in danger. “Uncle Quintin, don’t worry. I will take good care of myself. No one can bully me!” Joey raised his index finger and gently poked Quintin’s eyebrows on the screen. He grinned and said, “Not even my so-called father! Besides, I have given a big gift to him.

I guess he is wearing a long face now.” 1 A big gift? “What gift?” looking at the complacent expression on Joey’s face, Quintin suddenly had a bad feeling “Nothing. I just asked him for my living expenses for three and a half years since I was born.” Said Joey. Bang! As soon as Quintin heard this, he felt that his head was hit hard. “How much? ”

Chapter 235 Victor And Susan (Part One)

Susan pursed her pink lips and didn't say anything. But her face was still gloomy. The assistant looked at her agent for help. The agent noticed her gaze and immediately understood what she meant, but he only shook his head, indicating her to stop talking.

Everyone around Susan knew that the fact that Susan looked like Rachel was a thorn, which had been deeply rooted in her heart these three years. Therefore, they had been avoiding this topic. Even so, there were still people constantly comparing her with Rachel. In the elevator, the atmosphere froze. The agent and assistant lowered their eyes, and even their breathing became cautious.

Ding.

The elevator arrived at the 33th floor. "You don't have to follow me. Just go wait in the car." Said Susan, walking out of the elevator. "Okay." The agent immediately agreed and said in a concerned tone, "Have a good talk with Mr. Sullivan. We won't disturb you. Your favorite cake shop happens to have opened a new branch nearby. I always heard you talking about it, I'll go and buy some dessert you like and wait for you in the car."

Then the elevator door slowly closed. At the same time, the door of the office was opened from inside. "Miss Salazar?" As soon as Ivan raised his head, he saw Susan. He was surprised, "Aren't you supposed to be..." Susan quickly adjusted her mood, smiled and said gently, "I don't have anything to do at home, so I come here. Is Vic in his office?"

"Yes." Ivan replied, "But Mr. Sullivan is having a video conference now. Maybe..." "I know. Don't worry. I won't disturb him.” Susan said in a considerate tone, “I just haven’t seen him for a while and missed him. He has stomachache problem, when he’s busy, he often forgets eating. It’s almost evening. He haven’t even had lunch yet, right?” “Well... Yes.”

Chapter 236

Chapter 236 Victor And Susan (Part Two)

“Rachel Bennet is notorious for being a loser and she usually made a fool of herself. Some people said that she got divorced because Victor couldn’t bear her. But there are also some people who said that they didn’t really divorce, because someone once boarded the same ship with Rachel and Victor on a cruise and saw Victor fight with others for her on the deck.”

Taking another sip of wine, Susan thought for a while and asked, “Where is she now ?” “She is dead. Not long before you came back, I heard that she fell into the sea and drowned.”

Susan was stunned.

At this time, a waiter bumped into her shoulder recklessly, and the red wine spilled out of her glass and sprinkled on the corner of her dress. Susan said to her friend that she would go to the lady’s room to clean it up. However, when she came out of the lady’s room, she saw that Victor leaned against the wall smoking.

The thin smoke with the smell of tobacco covered his face, which made him look languish and lonely. She couldn’t help but stop and looked at him from a short distance. After a short while, Victor finished his cigarette and was about to leave.

Seeing this, Susan walked up to him and stopped him. “Mr. Sullivan.”

“What?” Victor stopped and turned around to look in the direction of the voice. Susan took a deep breath and stood in front of him. She raised her eyes, smiled and reached out her hand, “Nice to meet you, I’m Susan Salazar.” After a long time, Susan felt her hand a little sore, but Victor didn’t move. She felt embarrassed and regretted what she did. When she was about to take her hand back, he suddenly asked, “What’s your name again?”

After a short pause, Susan looked into his eyes. His dark eyes reflected her astonishment. “Susan... Susan Salazar. ” She came to herself and said, “My name is Susan. My father is James Salazar, the CEO of the Salazar Group.” Somehow, although Victor was looking at her, Susan felt that he was looking at another person through her face. When he heard her answer, Victor’s eyes darkened. Then he frowned and said coldly, “I don’t know him. What can I do for you?”

“.....” Susan was stunned. The Salazar family was well known in Apliaria. She had always been proud of her identity as the eldest daughter of the Salazar family. But now, when she heard the words “I don’t know him” from Victor, her pride was shattered into pieces.

Chapter 237 She Is My Wife

Susan waited for two hours and the video conference was finally over. It was completely dark outside by then. She poured Victor a glass of water and said, "Victor, you have been busy all afternoon, have a rest. Drink some water." Victor turned off the computer screen and glanced at the glass of water on the table, then he asked indifferently.

"Why are you here? What can I do for you?" "Nothing. It's just... We haven't seen each other for almost a month." Susan looked at him affectionately, "I just want to see you." "....." Victor didn't say anything and kept silent. Being stared at by him like this, Susan unconsciously felt a little nervous.

She avoided his sight, trying to ease her nervousness with a smile. "I ordered some food, but it's cold now. Since it's dark outside, how about we go out and grab some..." "What do you want?" Victor interrupted her. The smile on Susan's face froze. She clenched her fists and her fingernails clenched her palms. It hurt so much that she felt her eyes were a little sore.

After a long time, she took a deep breath and said, "Victor, my parents want to have dinner together." Afraid that he would refuse, Susan added, "But we don't have to if you are really busy." They might have read the rumors on the Internet recently, so..." She suddenly stopped and didn't go on. She stared at him with her beautiful eyes, trying to see how he would react.

Sure enough, Victor's hand writing paused. He looked up at her and said, "Rumors? What rumors?"

"It's just... Those media have been gossiping that we are going to get married. I don't know why." Said Susan guiltily. "Get married?" Sweat appeared on Susan's forehead. Although they were engaged, it was normal for them to talk about marriage, she was still nervous. The relationship between her and Victor was never equal. Two years ago, after the conversation in the Crown Club, she chose to stay with him.

Joey had a good sleep in the hotel. When he woke up, he found that Victor had known that he hacked into the system, which was much faster than he had expected.

He thought it would take a few days for him to find the clues he deliberately left. According to his original plan, if Victor followed the clues he left, he would only find a virtual IP address. But now looking at the codes jumping on the screen, Joey changed his mind.

He made a program for his watch in case that Quintin, who was far away from him, detected his whereabouts. Then he took his schoolbag and left the hotel. After a short while, he arrived at the Sue Garden, found a blind spot for monitoring and sat here. Holding the tablet PC, Joey tapped the screen with his chubby fingertips. A green light flashed on a camera not far away, and a series of codes were on his screen.

“Great!” Joey smiled complacently, looking forward to seeing Victor’s expression when he found the IP address. He changed the virtual IP address to the Sue Garden, which meant that when Victor found it out, he would find that he had circled around and returned to where he started. Joey stuffed the tablet PC into his bag, looked at his watch and was about to go back.

The program he designed could help him hide his whereabouts, but it couldn't last long. Otherwise, Quintin would be suspicious. By that time, he would have to be forced to go back. Thinking of this, Joey supported himself against the wall and was ready to go down.

"Meow!"

Suddenly, a cat's scream came from the corner. Joey stopped climbing the wall and looked down. In the dim light, he saw a snow-white cat looking up at him with its bright blue eyes. He was immediately attracted by the cat. "Meow!" Joey looked around and made sure no one was around before coming down from the wall.

Chapter 239 Stay For One Night

Ten minutes later, in the living room of the Sue Garden. "Meow!" Katie leaned on Joey's lap, staring at his arm with her round eyes. She called out as if she felt guilty, and then gently licked his palm with her tongue. "Mr. Sullivan, here is the medical kit." Lukas put down the medical kit and looked at Victor. Victor took off his suit and only wore a white shirt.

His sleeves were rolled up, revealing his forearms. With one leg bent, he was half-kneeling in front of Joey, holding his slender wrist with his hands. On Joey there were three scratches with blood oozing from them. "Okay." Victor's Adam's apple bobbed up and down, and he said in a deep voice. Then he took out the medical kit, opened it, took out a bottle and was about to pour some alcohol on the scratches on his arm.

All of a sudden, he felt that Joey's hand retreated.

When Victor saw the fear in his eyes, he immediately understood and asked, "Does it hurt?" "....." Frowning, Joey pursed his lips and said nothing. "Katie scratched you and alcohol can disinfect your wound. Although there is no need for vaccination, if we don't disinfect the scratches in time, it may inflame." Seeing that he didn't answer, Victor didn't care and continued.

"I know." Joey replied stiffly. But he knew that, he couldn't help but feel scared when he looked at the bottle of alcohol. He was afraid of pain. Before the New Year's day, Quintin took him to climb a tree, but he accidentally fell down and his palm was wounded. When he went back, Rachel cleaned his wound with alcohol, the pain was still vivid.

Chapter 240 Rachel Called

Standing up and casting a glance at Joey, Victor ordered, "Lukas, ask someone to clean up the guest room." Then he picked up Katie, turned around, left the living room and went upstairs. Lukas had been smiling since Joey agreed to stay. It had been a long time since the Sue Garden had a guest.

"Kid, let's go. I'll take you to the guest room and find you a pajama. Take a shower and have a rest." Lukas said kindly.

With a nod, Joey jumped off the sofa and said, "Mr. Smith, you can call me Joe."

"Joe?" "Yes, it is my nickname." Joey replied with a grin. The more Lukas looked at Joey, the more confused he became. He felt as if he saw Victor for the first time when he was just a little boy. That day, in the cold wind, Victor stood there, he was thin but he looked strong. However, Joey's eyes were bright and sparkling while little Victor's eyes were desperate.

"Mr. Smith, what are you thinking about?" Joey couldn't help asking when he saw that Lukas was staring at him in a daze. "Nothing, nothing." When Lukas came to his senses, he asked, "Joe, do you know why your mother gave you this name?" Joey followed Lukas out of the living room and headed to the guest room.

He shrugged and said, "She said it was for remembrance." "Remembrance?" "Yes, Mommy said that she had a dream once, in her dream, she was a superhero but she fell into bad men's trap and died because she believed them." Joey said, "When she woke up, she didn't know how, but this name came to her mind."
