

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress

Boss Chapter 1807

Chapter 1807 Will You Get a Divorce?

After Nicole finished speaking, she felt the baby in her womb move a little. Was the baby also angry? Nicole's face was pale. She touched her belly, took a deep breath, and calmed down. The movement in her belly then disappeared.

Julie glanced at Lumi and could not help but speak up for Nicole. "Lumi, you've been married for less than a month, so why does your husband let you come out to party? Shouldn't you two be on your honeymoon?" Lumi's expression changed. She instantly looked sad and disappointed.

"He went abroad on a business trip. It'll take him about a year to come back..." Yvette could not help but laugh. "Is he cheating on you?" Lumi's face stiffened.

"No way!" B "Tsk tsk... It's just a marriage alliance. Since there's no affection between you two, cheating is normal, right? But if he really cheated on you, would you get a divorce?" Yvette threw the question back to Lumi. Lumi lowered her head in silence and did not make a sound.

Sorrow and joy did not co-exist. Yvette raised an eyebrow and looked at Nicole, signaling to Nicole that she avenged her. Nicole bowed her head and smiled. She felt a little more comfortable. However, Nicole was in low spirits because of that photo.

Nicole took out her phone and wanted to send the photo to Clayton, but after some thought, she decided against it. She fully believed that Clayton would not betray her. However, she still felt uncomfortable seeing this scene.

Suddenly, they heard Ian and that girl arguing not far away. Even with the deafening music, they could still hear them. "Those friends of yours don't respect me at all! They mock me and look down on me, and you didn't stand up for me!" Ian had a bit of a headache.

"Impossible!" "It's true! They're your best friends, but they don't even care about me. Not to mention, they didn't even show me any respect!" Ian was annoyed and pushed away her arm that was clinging to him. He was puzzled.

"They don't even respect me, so why should they respect you? I know that it's impossible for them to mock you. Don't overthink things and be so full of yourself. Also, I told you that they're my friends. We're all just having fun, so why do you care so much about getting respect? Is there a need to distinguish our social status when we're out partying?" The delicate girl's body trembled as she stood there. She looked defeated and pale.

DE She was shocked by Ian's words. "I... I've never seen such friends! My friends are so polite to you and take care of you at every turn. They only do that for my sake! Your friends don't respect me because you don't care for me! You didn't even introduce me to them properly. That's why they despise me so much..." Ian impatiently loosened the collar of his shirt. He looked like a dissolute young master as he laughed lightly and recklessly.

"What's our relationship? Why should I introduce you to them? Have I ever touched you? Why do you always act as if I mistreated you? You're the one who's been begging to follow me around. I didn't ask you to, did I?" The girl's face became even paler.

Her body was shaking like she could not endure such a blow. Nicole and Yvette glanced at each other. Julie, who was on the side, clicked her tongue. "I really don't know what to say about Ian and his sh*tty affairs.

Adeline Zabel who was pursuing Ian back then is considered good. She's just a little too crazy in love and is too aggressive with her unrequited love, which scared Ian. Otherwise, I think that the two of them are quite a match." Yvette snorted lightly.

"The daughter of the shareholder who almost gobbled up Carter Corporation? I heard that she's now working in Sheldon Corporation as a O junior accountant. She's doing a good job too..."

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss Chapter 1808

Chapter 1808 He's Too Thoughtful

Nicole froze for a few seconds. "Why haven't you told us before?" Yvette cocked her head and glanced in Ian's direction. "I was afraid that he'd find trouble if he knew. Adeline Zabel works well. Even Lance said that she has a high IQ as long as she doesn't get emotional." 20 Lumi did not know what the ladies were whispering about. They looked like they had a tacit understanding, so she felt left out.

8 It was very awkward. "What are you guys talking about? Is Carter's girlfriend looking for trouble?" From her perspective, Lumi could only see the girl crying aggrievedly. Lumi was just watching the show. She knew about and looked down on such ordinary girls' tricks. 88 Only incapable women would use tears to sway men. 5 Thus, from the time that girl showed up, the ladies had an indifferent attitude toward her. Everyone was used to seeing such women trying to enter their social circle.

Although they did not outrightly reject her, it was impossible to integrate into the high-society ladies' circle by relying on a man. Besides Ian, some other gentries also came with their girlfriends. 22 Thus, everyone was used to it. Not long after, Ian came over in a huff. Lumi immediately shut up. Lumi could not resist gossiping. "Carter, is your girlfriend angry? Why don't you go and coax her?" 23 When Ian heard this, he was in a very bad mood.

"Girlfriend? Who told you that she's my girlfriend?" That delicate girl chased after Ian and heard his words. In front of so many people, that girl could not bear to stay any longer.

Her eyes were red, and she covered her mouth as she immediately ran out, looking very hurt. Ian Carter's heartless look made many of them sigh. 82 How sincere could that girl's affection be anyway? Ian sat on the side and suddenly took a big gulp of wine. He took out a cigarette and was just about to light it when he suddenly thought of something. He glanced at Nicole, then stuffed the cigarette back into his pocket.

"Uh... I'm going out for a smoke..." 88 Nicole smiled. "Carter, there are so many people coming and going from here. If that girl gets in trouble, you won't be able to rid yourself of this responsibility. You should just send her back.' 5 » Ian's face stiffened.

He seemed to have thought of this. He cursed, stood up, took his phone and jacket, and walked out. This clubhouse was frequented by the op rich and famous. It was not easy to get in without a membership.

Those who could enter were either rich or powerful. There were certainly many ways to torment a girl that went to their door. Thus, it was better not to get into this kind of trouble. Nicole just reminded Ian of this fact. 18 Nicole's phone lit up, and she glanced at it. It was a message from Clayton. [Are you tired? Do you want to go home and rest?] Nicole paused and turned off her phone. She did not want to reply.

The music in the room was deafening. It almost made her blood boil. After a few minutes, her phone beeped again. 82 Clayton messaged her. [Are you hungry? I can take you out to eat something.] Nicole silently turned off the phone.

Julie looked at Nicole and laughed. "Is Mr. Sloan being thoughtful again? He's right next door to us. If he misses you, why doesn't he just come and see 88 you?" Yvette laughed lightly at the side.

"Mr. Sloan is already known to be notoriously obedient. If he comes here to keep Nicole company on this occasion, I think that he won't be able to show his face in his circle. He'd just be in our gang like Ian..." Nicole's hand paused.

She suddenly lost the mood to play after hearing that. She glared at them and put down the cards in her hand. CC Nicole grunted lightly and said, Whatever! I'm pregnant, so I can't stay u all night. I'm going to the bathroom. You guys can do as you please."

