Boss Chapter 1779

Chapter 1779 Absolutely Impossible

Nicole wore sunglasses and nodded. 2 “This way please...”) Nicole and Logan followed the lady. Logan was not too happy. After all, with Nicole’s identity, Luke Youngblood did not come out to receive them and let his receptionist lead them over.

Luke Youngblood was really putting on airs. However, Nicole’s face was indifferent as she walked inside. The receptionist glanced back at Nicole from time to time, wanting to take a closer look but also worried about offending her. Nicole noticed the curious gaze from the front and smiled at her in a friendly way.

The receptionist shuddered and immediately turned back, not daring to peek again. Nicole was speechless and thought, ‘Am I that scary?’ Once they turned a corner, they arrived at an office door. The receptionist coughed. “Ms. Stanton, our general manager, Mr. Youngblood, is waiting for you inside.

Please come in.” 8 Nicole nodded and subconsciously swept a glance outside. A few workstations occupied the main area. They looked clean -cut and did not look like the stereotypical programmer.

However, everyone was busy with their own things and kept their heads down. They did not even notice her. They sure were professional! Nicole thought so and had a good feeling i n her heart. This way, Nicole did not mind taking out more money.

When she pushed the door open, Luke Youngblood stood up and walked over to greet her. “Ms. Stanton, it’s a pleasure to meet you.’ 3) Nicole raised her eyebrows and smiled.” Nice to meet you.” Luke was not quite the same as she imagined. He did not look serious and old -fashioned, but tall, thin, pale, and quite youthful and handsome.

ma He did not look like a clueless fresh graduate. He looked mature and stable like a veteran in the business world. He looked like he was not easy to deal with. This was Nicole’s first instinct. However, that made sense.

Otherwise, how could Z Technologies become such a hotcake in just a few months that investors wanted to get a cut? C The office was not big, but it was clean and tidy. There was not much fancy stuff, and everything was in simple clear gray tones. It was very much to a man’s preferences.

They sat on the sofa, and the receptionist just now brought over three cups of coffee. Nicole raised her eyebrows. The receptionist was also responsible for a secretary’s work? Soon, Luke’s face was sullen as he asked the receptionist to leave.

The lady looked at Nicole reluctantly and dawdled out. Luke was a bit speechless and explained to Nicole. "Sorry, she's my girlfriend. She knows that a female customer is here today, so she..." Nicole nodded with a look of understanding. "

I understand." So that was Luke's girlfriend. No wonder... Logan took out the prepared documents and handed them to Luke. Only then did Nicole speak with a straight face. "Mr. Youngblood, I believe that you've been in contact with our company before. You can bring up whatever conditions that you're not satisfied with."

Luke sullenly looked at the document in front of him and pursed his lips. "The conditions you gave are more generous than everyone else, but 51% of our shares is too much. That's absolutely impossible." Nicole smiled and saw his firm look of refusal.

This was an expected reaction. "51% of shares in exchange for a lump sum of $200 million. This is equivalent to Stanton Corporation taking on all the risks. You don't need to bear any risk, so you're not at a loss...") Luke curled his lips and looked stubborn.

He shook his head. "When I lose the controlling stake, I'll be put in a passive position, so what's the point of keeping this company?" 28 Once the other party had more shares than Luke, sooner or later, the company would land up in their hands. The purpose of his business venture was not to do all this work for the benefit of others.

Chapter 1780 Desire for Nothing

Nicole was silent for a while. She looked out the window where the sun was shining and felt her heart calming down. 88 Luke Youngblood, who was sitting opposite her, refused to relent. He was certain that his popular startup was a hotcake that everyone would want.

The highest bidder would get it. Of course, Luke would choose the one that was most beneficial to him. Nicole wanted to drink the coffee in front of her but held back in the next second. 83_o She looked through the window at the workstations outside.

The people outside were not like they were when Nicole first came in. They were not calm and composed. Instead, they had gathered together in discussion and looked very enthusiastic as they stared in the direction of Luke's office. Nicole was momentarily in deep thought.

Suddenly, Nicole turned her head to look at Luke. "Mr. Youngblood, are you really sure that you will succeed when this project goes to market?" Luke froze. Nicole smiled and looked down. She pondered for a moment before speaking.

28 "As far as I know, this project has already been registered. Even though you're smart enough to release it online first to get an advantage, you won't be able to pass the relevant department's audit. There are many troublesome procedures and even lawsuits that'll be filed down the road, and these situations won't be favorable for you." ») Luke's face changed. His gaze flickered slightly.

No one noticed this, and only Nicole did, which indicated that Stanton Corporation's vetting procedures were more standardized and strict than others. E Usually, they would only solve this kind of problem after getting the investment when the problem arises. That was because most investors would only see the immediate benefits and rarely thought about the long run. However, Nicole was surprisingly different.

Luke had underestimated her. Luke pursed his lips and pondered. "I believe that this matter will be solved. I'll hire a lawyer to handle it." He had planned to wait for the investorst o give him the money, hire the best lawyer to fight for the lawsuit, or pay a settlement with the other party. This was simply not worth mentioning compared t o the whole project. Nicole smiled. Her gaze flickered. "You can't solve it, Mr. Youngblood.

To tell you the truth, Stanton Corporation started the series of procedures for this project two years ago. 1) Luke looked shaken, and his face was slightly pale. "Stanton Corporation..." B Luke had thought that this project could fetch such a high price because of its unlimited prospects. Besides Stanton Corporation, other investors also gave them a great offer, but they requested even more shares.

Some even asked for 80 %. He was leaning toward Stanton Corporation because they offered a one- time payment of $200 million. It was not a payment done in phases. However, Stanton Corporation asked for 51% of the shares. This requirement was not excessive in the market. On the contrary, he picked up a bargain. However, Luke had confidence in his project.

Since the other party was Stanton Corporation, he felt that he could still ask for more and get better terms. * Therefore, he refused all negotiators that Stanton Corporation sent over firmly, full of self-confidence. He also did not refuse t o meet other investors because he wanted to create a false impression to Stanton Corporation that he would sign with others at any time.

Soon, Logan, Nicole's assistant, personally reached out to Luke to call for a n appointment. Luke then thought that his purpose would soon be achieved. حممام ام
م Nicole was in a rush. Indeed, she could not wait. However, the news she brought made him choke. Luke's voice was cold and harsh."

Ms. Stanton, are you kidding me?" He was the first to launch this project, so he did not even bother to investigate which company was behind the formalities. If it was anyone else, Luke would have the confidence to defeat them. 8
Coincidentally, the other party was Stanton Corporation. Nicole smiled very gently without any coldness. "Do you think that I'd joke with you?" 3
